MEMBERS FAVOR GRAB FOR MILEAGE, IN HOUSE

House Committee Reports Urgent Deficiency Bill Carrying $145,000—Two Sessions Are Merged.

Washington, Jan. 26.—An appropriation of $145,000 for extra mileage on account of the special and extra sessions of congress has been inserted by the house committee on appropriations in the urgent deficiency bill. There was only one dissenting vote in the committee. The contention of the majority of the committee is that senators and representatives are entitled to two allowances for mileage, because congress was called in extra session in November, while the present is the regular annual session provided by the Constitution.

But One Session.
Those who oppose the scheme take the ground that it is a clear "grab" which congress can, but should not, vote itself. This is argued on the ground that the extra session merged into the regular session, and in reality there is only one session, and that the mileage allowance provided by law did not contemplate any such proceeding as now proposed. It was not possible for any member of congress to go to his home and return again.

Further debate in the senate developed that no senator is prepared to contend that there was a constructive recess between the extra and regular sessions of congress. So far as can be ascertained without a vote, the opinion seems to be unanimous that the extra session merged into the regular session without an interim which could be construed as a recess, and that consequently there can be no recess appointments. This question is important to Dr. Crum, the negro collector of customs at Charleston, S. C., and a long list of army promotions based upon Gen. Wood's appointment.

Army Appropriation.
Seventy-five million dollars is the amount carried in the army appropriation bill which was passed in the house of representatives. The provision for the consolidation of the adjutant general's department and the record and pension office of the war department into one bureau was known as the military secretary's office was stricken from the bill. The item of $100,000 for the construction of an army general hospital at Washington also went out on a point of order, as did the paragraph providing for the construction of a submarine cable from Sitka to Fort Lisicum. The effort to eliminate an appropriation of $95,148 for the maintenance of the Porto Rico provisional regiment of infantry was unsuccessful.

Millions for Navy.
Larger by many millions than any naval appropriation bill ever passed in time of peace will be the budget reported by the house naval committee. It will be about $98,000,000. Chairman Foss feels that the committee will carry the day. Speaker Cannon has committed himself to the substantial rebuilding of the navy.

GRAND RAPIDS WATER SCANDAL IN COURTS

One Alderman Admits His Guilt and Sentence Is Deferred—City Physician Says He Swore False.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Jan. 26.—Former Alderman Daniel E. Lozier, accused of accepting a bribe to aid the Lake Michigan water deal, has changed his plea of not guilty to guilty. Sentence was deferred.

The trial of Garrit H. Albers on the charge of perjury at his trial on charges growing out of the water deal was resumed. Alderman Renihan, whom Albers is alleged to have offered a bribe, swore that he did not change his vote upon the water deal because of the talks with Albers. Dr. Ulke de Vries, who was city physician when the water deal was being put through, admitted on cross-examination that he had sworn falsely before the grand jury when asked if he sent Albers to see Renihan. De Vries said he thus swore before the grand jury to avoid trouble for himself and others. Lant K. Salisbury was on the stand less than five minutes telling of the attempt to influence Renihan through Albers.

Former State Senator George E. Nichols of Iowa, charged with subornation of perjury in the water scandal, waived further examination in police court and was bound over in $2,000 for appearance in the superior court.

ASKING AID FOR PRISON WORKERS

Captain William Young of the Volunteers of America, Tells of His Work.

Captain William Young, an officer of the Volunteers of America, has been in the city for two days past soliciting work for the Volunteers' work among the prisoners in the large prisons of this country. He has a pleasing manner and tells most interestingly of the work of the Volunteers for the prisoners themselves of saving the convicted into bands of hope and the work among the families of the men, the home provided for them on their release and the manner in which work is obtained for these outcasts who have sinned and been punished. Captain Young is a traveling delegate for the Volunteers and visits many cities throughout the state asking contributions for the work. He sends in each night a report of his collections to the general commanding the Chicago office and is under direct orders from this office what to do. He says the work of the association is wonderful and is being appreciated by the republic at large.

DEADLY FUMES BLOCK RESCUE

Nearly Two Hundred Are Entombed in the Shaft of the Harwick Mine.

ENGINEER GIVES UP HIS OWN LIFE

Salwyn M. Taylor Was Suffocated in an Attempt to Rescue Workmen Who Were Caught by the Fire Damp.

(Special by Scripps-McLain.)
Pittsburg, Jan. 26.—The mystery, surrounding the Harwick mine disaster at Cheswick is as yet unsolved. The latest investigation shows there is no hope for between a hundred and eighty and hundred ninety men who were in the mine when the explosion occurred yesterday morning. Long distance telephones from Cheswick this morning say that Mine Inspector Cunningham came out of the mine this morning and stated that he had gone a fourth of a mile into the mine and did not think there was anyone alive in the whole mine. He saw sixteen dead men near the mouth of the pit. Further investigation has been stopped by a big cave in of the mine's side. The body of Salwyn Taylor, the distinguished engineer, was hoisted out of the mine this morning.

Salwyn M. Taylor of Pittsburg, Pa., one of the best mining engineers in the country, gave up his life in the effort to save the men buried in the gas-choked passages in the shaft which had been wrecked by an explosion of fire damp.

It had first been reported that seventy-five men had been found unconscious but alive. Ten minutes later the body of Salwyn Taylor was brought to the top of the shaft. He had been dead for several hours, and then all hope that any of the 180 or 190 entombed men were alive was abandoned.

Ice Covers the Dead.
The rescuers are being brought out coated with ice, drenched to the skin, and unable to walk. They report that dead are scattered one above the other as thick as pine needles. Water is fast pouring into the mine, covering the corpses with a shroud of ice and making the work of rescue almost impossible. After damp is collecting in quantities.

Time and again the rescuers were driven back from the shaft. Each time they returned to their task, in an effort to reach the men they knew to be imprisoned among the crushed timbers and in the gas-laden atmosphere of the ruined mine.

Rescue parties, headed by State Mine Inspector Cunningham, have been brought back nearly dead, overpowered by the noxious fumes of the lower levels. Still the work has not halted.

Fire Damp Explodes.
The explosion occurred at the bottom of one of the shafts, and ressumably was caused by fire damp. Robert North and Jack McCann, engineers employed by the Allegheny Coal company, tried to get into the mine by way of the stairs through the air shaft. They managed to grope their way some distance, but were finally driven back by the foul air.

The main shaft into the mine, 220 feet deep, was made useless by the explosion, which hurled both cages, one of which was within thirty feet of the bottom of the shaft, through the tipples, thirty feet above the surface.

Believe All Are Dead.
While disaster overtook the first rescue party which entered the mine, nothing was learned of the fate of the miners who went to work in the deep shaft.

Three of the rescuers, Becker, Smith and Walkernest, when they returned to the surface, declared that, in their opinion, all in the mine outside of the rescue party, are dead, including Taylor, the engineer.

The only check on the number of men entombed in the gas choked passages of the mines is the number of lamps given out to the men as they went to work.

H. F. Hutchinson gave out between 180 and 190 lamps.

Heroes With Grimy Hands.
There were many heroes in oilskins and overalls and with grimy hands gathered round the shaft. It is a hard thing for men to do, to go down into darkness and possible death, even for the lives of men they know, but there were many volunteers who were strangers to the entombed men. At every call there were always men enough to man the bucket. Again and again the men were driven back to the fresh air and the heat of the boiler rooms, but only to return to the deep shaft for still another attempt to reach the men buried beneath.

Thought Mine Was Safe.
F. W. Cunningham, the mine inspector of the Fourteenth district, said: "I went to Greensburg to inspect a mine and when I reached home I found a bunch of telegrams telling me of this disaster. The mine where the explosion took place was inspected, I think, about the first of December. There was some gas in there, then, but I never considered the mine dangerous."

The last inspection blank hanging on the nail in the mine company's office is dated July 17, 1903, but it is evident that a later report had been torn off.

BEDFORD'S MYSTERY IS STILL UNSOLVED

Mayor Smith Declares That Young Heltger Is Considered a Factor by the Police.

Bedford, Ind., Jan. 26.—Bedford is in a state of bewilderment bordering on panic. The developments in its investigation of the brutal murder of Miss Sarah C. Schaefer placing the young university man, Joseph Heltger, under surveillance, has unnerved its residents.

Mayor Smith said: "Heltger was considered by the police in their inquiry because discrepancies existed in the accounts we received of his movements on the night of the murder, and such discrepancies, I may say, still exist. He is still a factor."

Asked to what discrepancies he referred, the mayor said: "Brenton Smith, my son, says that he arrived at the old library, where the basketball game was held, shortly after 7 o'clock and that he saw Heltger there at that time. Michael Murphy states that he did not reach the library until after 7:30 o'clock, and that neither my son nor Heltger had reached the hall at that time. Some one was mistaken."

The mayor's statement was the first intimation that any Bedford official has given that Heltger has been seriously considered in the attempt to solve the mystery of Miss Schaefer's death.

The possible connection of a Chicago man with the crime has been left for the consideration of the authorities. J. M. Walker, wanted in Chicago on a warrant for the abandonment of his wife, Barbara, is still being sought by Detective Halpin. Halpin denied that he had sufficient ground for connecting Walker with the death of the school teacher in the event of his apprehension.

In the absence of Heltger from the city his friends are firm in the belief that he can throw no light on the murder of the school teacher.

FOURTEEN MEN IN A MINE DISASTER

All Are Killed by the Dropping of a Big Elevator in the Shaft.

MITCHELL WILL BE LEADER AGAIN

Is Elected President of the Mine Workers' Union at the Indianapolis Meeting.

(Special by Scripps-McLain.)

A resolution to increase Mitchell's salary from three to five thousand dollars was decided killed by Mitchell in the chair, although there was but one vote against the resolution. The wage scale committee reported it not expedient to ask for an increase at the joint convention of the central competitive district next week.

BIRTHDAY OF SCOTS' SWEET SINGER, BURNS

Appropriately Observed by the Rock County Caledonians Last Night--Program and Dance.

From the opening melody of Scotch airs, discoursed by Smith's orchestra from a balcony hung with folds of the traditional plaid, to the singing of "Auld Lang Syne" under the leadership of Col. Kimberley, by the whole audience standing, every moment of last night's Burns anniversary celebration at Central hall was thoroughly enjoyed. The Rock County Caledonian society had hoped for a larger attendance but the severe weather kept many away. However, there were at least a hundred couples present and the audience was by no means a sparse one.

Lyric Quartette Sings
Following the orchestral prelude which was very appropriate and pleasing, the Lyric Male quartette, composed of E. O. Smith, 1st tenor; H. P. Robinson, 2d tenor; George H. Robinson, baritone; and Len H. Matthews, bass, rendered two numbers. The first was "Robin Adair," and the second—"The Boy and the Tack," was given in response to an encore demanded by the highly pleased audience. The singing of the quartette was a surprise and a rare treat for those who had not had the good fortune to hear them before this year.

Not On the Program
Rev. Robert C. Denison opened his address on Robert Burns with a humorous allusion to the "miscellaneous" of Westminster abbey—the seats in the chapel of Henry VII., so constructed that if any of the unlucky squires should chance to drop asleep, they would lose their balance and be precipitated to the center of the aisle. He thought it might have been well if modern church builders had kept in mind this scheme of construction. But the illustration was particularly applicable to the speaker, to which he was addressing himself, and the unstable folding chairs on the slippery floor had brought it to his mind. Rev. Denison had not proceeded far in his address when some unlucky newcomers entered and in seating themselves were to be boggled to the floor. The burst of laughter that followed this was, of course, not understood by the unfortunate.

The Best Beloved
I wish to speak for a few minutes on Robert Burns and the hold he has on the world, said Rev. Denison. If I were to propose a toast it would be this: "Robert Burns—the best beloved poet in the world." This gathering and other similar ones tonight are witness to the fact that he is much beloved in this respect he contrasts with all English poets. There is a monument erected in his memory in Edinburgh and many others elsewhere, but Burns' monument is perennial. Every time a Scotch lad looks into the eyes of a Scotch lassie, every time the heather grows purple on the hillside, every time we hear the sound of murmuring water, Burns lives again.

Contrasted With Shakespeare
It was Shakespeare's part to body forth all scenes "from the morn of laughter to the night of tears," for all his genius we do not love him. He stands on the lonely heights of genius. But we do love Burns. Watson, standing at the grave of Wordsworth and attempting to explain the love and veneration in which he was held, resolved it all in this: "He hath for weary feet the gift of rest." We love Wordsworth because he takes us out under the silent stars where all is peaceful. Yet Wordsworth is not loved as Burns.

Byron and Browning
I noticed a headline in an evening paper—"Bobbie" Burns. That does not seem incongruous to us. Perhaps we even think of him as "Bobbie." Yet think how "Bobbie" Wordsworth would sound—his name was William. The world does not love him. The contrast is it does feel Burns' Byron shocks us. We marvel at his titanic struggle with the forces, but we do not love him. Among the English poets Robert Browning stands high in the affections of men. He urges us to all manner of heroism. He furnishes the tonic that we need in these degenerate days.

"Then welcome each rebuff
That turns earth's surface rough."

The Soo line yesterday announced at St. Paul a reduction in its passenger rate to the east based on an 88 rate to Chicago. The impression prevails that the Soo has found enough in the testing of the Minneapolis-Chicago eastern market to justify the maintenance of the low rate indefinitely.

It is said that all conductors and engineers of the Southern railway are to be presented annual passes as a part of a new plan for rewarding loyal and intelligent employees. The officials contemplate the scheme as extending to all departments of the road. The plan provides that engineers and conductors who have served five years receive these passes for themselves over the division on which they operate their locomotives and trains. Ten-year men are to receive passes for the whole system and fifteen-year men are to be given passes over the whole system for themselves and their wives.

RUSSIAN BEAR IS VERY AGGRESSIVE

ANSWER MADE TO QUERY REGARDING WAR CLOUD.

SITUATION NOW IN THE EAST

Why Japan Opposes Russia's Movements in Korea at the Present Time.

Some time ago a communication was handed into the office asking to tell why the Russians and Japs were going to war. The question is a broad one and involved much search before a suitable answer in all details could be made. The following article is true as to data and facts and is as far as can be discovered, the only grounds for the war talk between the two countries. Incidentally it might be mentioned that the Russian emperor is looked upon as the pope of the Russian church, and the Mikado is a god to his humble followers. Another element not to be forgotten is that Japan has for years been improving its army and navy equipment until it is really a formidable power. Of course it has its limits to resources while Russia has no limit except that fear of an invasion of some European power might compel her to keep her troops in Russia she might otherwise send to the east.

General Reasons
Russia having gained a port on the Pacific and gobbled up Manchuria, the bear's aggression brings the story up to date. The Japanese have conquered the peninsula, but have refrained from depriving it of independence. Japan went to war with China in 1894 on the proposition that Korea must be independent. She will war with Russia on the same issue, if necessary.

Korea is essential to Japan as a source of food supply, as an outlet for the surplus of the swarming Japanese population and for strategic reasons. Possession is not necessary but that the country be kept open is vital to Japan. The latter country is not rich in agriculture, and the people live largely on fish. Even now the country is not self-supporting and food must be imported. With the growth of the country this condition must grow worse. The natural point to which to look for relief is the neighborhood peninsula of Korea.

Russia Wants It
Russia wants Korea for its ports, its trade and to extend its influence in China.

On three occasions Russia has solemnly declared that she would never occupy Korea. These promises were made in 1886, 1894 and 1898. Yet Russia occupies Yonampoh in northern Korea and has attempted to get possession of Masampoh at the southern end of the peninsula. In 1898 Russia and Japan signed a treaty in which they agreed to the most absolute terms never to interfere in the slightest degree in Korean government affairs.

Russia, however, broke in under cover of a timber concession. In 1896 M. Bryner, a Russian merchant, obtained a permit to cut timber on the Korean side of the Yalu river, which forms the boundary between Korea and Manchuria. The concession is now owned by the Russo-Chinese bank, which is controlled by the Russian government.

Send Troops
Last May a small force of Russian troops crossed over to Yonampoh in Korea, near the mouth of the Yalu river. They landed in civilian dress, however, having stopped at an inn on the river to change their clothing. They bought 12 acres of land in the name of two Korean laborers and proceeded to erect stone factory buildings.

On May 15 Korea sent an ultimatum that if the Russian operations at Yonampoh were not discontinued the friendship between Russia and Korea would be impaired. The local Korean governor gave the invaders peremptory notice to leave. Still the Russians worked on. In July the Russians brought in their women and children and began the wearing of uniforms. They engaged in the construction of a stone bank for twenty-one miles along the coast and constructed a light railway that distance. The new factory buildings were supplemented by a fort and munitions of war. The concession was for cutting timber along the river. They cut down trees twenty-five miles removed from the stream.

Japan Appears
On Aug. 25 Japan issued an ultimatum to Korea. It was that unless Russia was driven out of Korea Japan would cancel promises previously made, and feel free to take whatever action she considered necessary for the protection of her interests. Korea took only look at the lines and decided not to undertake the dispossession proceedings. Japan demanded that Wiju, at the mouth of the Yalu, be made an open treaty port. That request was granted. At the request of Japan and the United States China also opened Antung, across the river from Wiju.

Meantime Japan strove to arrive at an understanding with Russia. The Japanese claim that, last summer, Baron de Rosen, the Russian minister to Japan, entered into an agreement with Komura, the Japanese foreign minister, that was satisfactory to Japan. The Russian government refused to ratify this agreement.

In October
Last October Japan made formal demands upon Russia. They were in effect that both powers should respect the independence of China and Korea, and that Japan should have the same rights in Korea that were exercised by Russia in Manchuria.

The answer to these proposals was not made by Russia until last week. It reports that Russia refused to discuss Manchuria and proposed that a neutral zone, comprising the northern third of Korea, be established. It is also said that Japan would absolutely refuse to accept the zone idea on the ground that it would destroy the independence of Korea. Another report has it that Russia has made concessions that, while not entirely satisfactory to Japan have been accepted by the latter as the basis of further negotiations.

Russia Aggressive
During the last fall Russia sought to extend its interests in Korea. The claim was made that the Bryner concession was not only for the cutting of timber but gave the right to build railways and telegraph lines. The timber company attempted recently to secure control of Masampoh, the most southerly port in Korea. It is about twenty miles from Japan. Between the two is a narrow strait, which has become known, because of its importance, as the "Yellow Dardanelles." This acquisition has not yet been secured by Russia. It is fiercely opposed by the Japanese. They declare that rather than have Russia entrenched at Masampoh, they will go to war.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; if it contains sediment or is tinged with an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What To Do.
There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and sending pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, without cost, by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When Home of Swamp-Root, writing mention this paper and don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y.

The Great Strike.—The strike of the engineers on the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago road is still in force, and no trains go over the road except small trains once a day each way.

We observe the Chicago Tribune takes strong grounds against according to the demands of the strikers, alleging that if they succeed the roads of the country will be entirely at the mercy of the engineers who run the locomotives.

Slightly Frigid.—The Appleton Crescent tells the story that a chap from Freedom in that county, "understood a thermometer in our town marked 133 degrees below zero. It was awful cold." The story of the thermometer is a whopper.

The 13th Battery Ordered Off.—The 13th Battery which has only been recently raised and is now at Camp Washburne, Milwaukee, has just been ordered to leave for New Orleans.

Lively Runaway.—A horse belonging to Dr. Treat took a free race with out a guiding hand this afternoon. Time, 1:40; damage, nothing.

FOR DEVELOPING THE IMMATURE BUST

or to make the breast firm, large and beautiful, nothing can equal it. To prevent the breasts from shrinking mothers should always use Dr. Charles Flesh Food after weaning baby. It will also restore a bosom to its natural contour and beauty lost through this cause.

SPECIAL OFFER.

The regular price of Dr. Charles Flesh Food is $1.00 a box, but to introduce it into thousands of new homes we have decided to send two (2) boxes to all who answer this advertisement and send us $1.00. All packages are sent in plain wrapper, postage prepaid.

We will also send you our illustrated book, "Art of Massage," which contains all the proper movements for massaging the face, neck and arms, and full directions for developing the bust. Address, DR. CHARLES CO., 19 PARK PLACE, NEW YORK.

A Solemn Duty.

A solemn duty which we owe society, our children and ourselves is that nothing which can be done to assist nature at that time when our wives are to become mothers should be left undone. Of all the countless details to be observed at such a time, no single one is of more importance than the bodily welfare of the expectant mother; she must not experience undue suffering through any lack of effort on our part.

MOTHER'S FRIEND

should be the recourse of all real men and women at such times; it is easily obtainable, and it is a positive crime not to procure it. Its offices are to relax the muscles and tissues intimately associated in this greatest of the Creator's phenomena, and by simple external applications a result is obtained which at the appointed time permits the mother to undergo her greatest joy with fortitude, and bring into the world a child worthy of its parents. $1.00, all druggists. Our book "Motherhood" sent free.

KING COTTON.

"King Cotton" made his greatest record in the export figures of the calendar year 1903. From 1883 to 1903 cotton exports averaged a little more than three-fourths of a million dollars a day. In 1903 they averaged more than one million dollars in value per day, in the last three months of 1903 they averaged more than two million dollars per day, and in the closing month of the year nearly two and a half million dollars per day. Exports of cotton in December, 1903, show a greater value than in any preceding month in the history of cotton exportation, the total being over 72 million dollars and thus averaging two and one-half million dollars for every day of the month.

The value of cotton exports from the United States, as shown by the Department of Commerce and Labor through its Bureau of Statistics, was 578 million dollars. These are the preliminary figures, but will not be materially changed by the revised statement to be issued later in the present month. The total value of the exports exceeds by 64 million dollars that of the preceding record year, 1900, when the value of the cotton exported was 514 million dollars. The value of cotton exports never reached the 300 million dollar line except in years 1900, 1901, and 1903. In 1900 the total was 314 millions, in 1901, 301 millions, and in 1903, 378 millions of dollars.

While the total value of the year's exports of cotton was the highest on record, the quantity exported did not reach so high a figure as in 1898, when the value was much below that of 1903. The total quantity exported in 1903 was 3,620,000,000 pounds, which exceeded that of any preceding year except 1898, when the total was 4,178,000,000 pounds. The value of the cotton exports of 1898, however, was only $232,765,204, or less than two-thirds as much as that of 1903, although the quantity in 1898 was 13 per cent greater.

Cotton forms constantly a very large share of the exports, and especially of the agricultural exports of the United States. During the entire period from 1883 to 1903 the value of cotton exported has aggregated over five millions of dollars and averaged 25 per cent of the total exports of domestic products and 36 per cent of the agricultural products exported. In 1903 cotton formed about 28 per cent of the total exports and about 28 per cent of the total exports of agricultural products.

The United Kingdom was in 1903 the largest customer for our cotton. The total value of cotton exported from the United States to the United Kingdom in the calendar year 1903 was, in round terms, 147 million dollars, and this total of 147 millions forms 39 per cent of our total cotton exports in that year. Germany stood second in the list of our cotton customers, the total value of our cotton exported to Germany during the year being 111 million dollars. France was third in the list of purchasers, our total exports of cotton to that country in 1903 being 47 millions. To Italy, which stood next in the list, the total was 21 millions; to Russia, nearly 9 millions; to Belgium about 8 millions; to British North America, 5 millions; to Japan, about 4½ millions, and to Mexico, a little over 3 millions. While the United Kingdom is the largest purchaser of American cotton, her increase over preceding years is much less than that of Germany. The total value of our cotton exports to the United Kingdom in the year 1903 aggregated but about 5 million dollars in excess of the total for 1900, while that to Germany exceeded by 23 millions the total for 1900, the former record year.

The increase in the value of raw cotton exported from the United States has been especially marked in recent years. Prior to 1900 the value of our cotton exports has never reached 300 million dollars; since 1900 it has never but once fallen below the 300 million dollar line, and in 1903, as already stated, was 378 millions. Yet, notwithstanding this fact, the cotton mills of the United States have during that time consumed a larger quantity of our cotton than ever before. Prior to 1898 the cotton mills of the United States had never in a single year consumed so much as 3 million bales of the domestic crop; since the beginning of that year the annual consumption has ranged from 3½ million bales upward, and in 1902 and 1903, respectively, exceeded 4 million bales. Yet in those very years the exports of raw cotton averaged higher in quantity and value than ever before.

General Bryant has not yet decided just where that state convention is to be held. He likes the idea of the Assembly grounds across Lake Monona and thinks that would be cool enough for almost any delegation that might come.

Why did the council not grant a franchise that would have stood in the eyes of the law and not left clauses that even the lawyers who drew the substitute did not know whether the supreme court would approve of or not?

It is merely a theory that Mr. Machen saved his twenty thousand out of his measly thirty-five hundred a year by smoking five cent cigars and going to the heaven when he attended the opera.

Notwithstanding the glorious number of railroads St. Louis has for getting away from its climate there are more suicides there than any one knows of.

This is too cold weather for politicians to do more than plan but when the thaw comes tobacco and politics will go hand in hand.

Dowie was halted in San Francisco and asked to pay an old debt. Perhaps the Australian natives will be more kind to the poor old fellow.

Mr. Cook will come down to the state convention with a goodly number of seals in his belt that may help count up in the total list.

Perhaps that trio of ear barn bandits think they can only get a jury of their peers when they find twelve men who have been in jail.

Judge Baensch still has much to thank his selection of friends for they are giving him a hearty and whole souled support.

Some of these old residents remember a day fifty years when it was colder than Monday but the average citizen doubts it.

High water in Ohio may not sweep Hanna's boom from its moorings but high water in Wall street would completely wreck the craft.

If a reform council will hold up a franchise for the road than every one wants let us have a good old republican council again.

Many who attended the last state convention hope it is true that the convention will be held in a cool spot this year.

Even the La Follette followers have begun to recognize the fact that Baensch and Cook are gaining strength each week.

There are many persons who firmly believe that Hanna's boom for president should not be launched until April first.

When a man gets sent to prison he should be made to check his political pull at the front door.

Philadelphia has a flood of water that bids fair to wake up the sleepy Quaker city for fair.

Wheat goes up despite the fact that war is not liable. For the time anyway.

Thibet seems to be one of the places where an Englishman and not a Russian can go.

That explanation of what package freight really is has not yet been made.

Bryant has not issued that call yet. Is he waiting for what now?

Panama might want to annex to Mister Morgans country after all.

GOSSIP ON THE CHICAGO MARKET

Fresh News From the Closing Reports of the Windy City's Mart.

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 26.—A steady opening, slight advance, a plunge downward of over 2 cents and a good rally of nearly 3 cents. That's the story of the wheat market today. The early impression was that Armour was dumping his wheat and every one seemed anxious to assist him, the crowd got short and when the leader took every thing was offered at low point and bid for more the talent woke up and found there was no wheat for sale, the scramble to find some at any price lifted the market above the 90 cent mark. The close was strong at near the top of the day. The lesson taught was salutary. It is not safe to be too heavy on the short side yet. The market is kept pretty well in hand by the manipulator and it's hard to make money playing another man's game. Our own opinion is that wheat should go nearly up to the 92 cent mark, when a sale will be indicated, barring war, but we would buy on sharp breaks for the present.

Corn held steady and did not participate in the gyrations of the wheat. There was a good demand for it around 49 cents and the close was strong. It looks like a fair scalp for the present buying on one-half cent break and sell it on a fair swell.
Oats took a little further drop but came back again and looks a purchase on all declines. It is too well held to be short of just now.

YOUNG GIRL AIDS ONE IN DISTRESS
Edna Schumacher Earns Right to Wear Band of Mercy—Others Refused Help.

An opportunity to show herself worthy of the Little Band of Mercy star she wore, came to Miss Edna Schumacher, age 17 years, as she was walking home from the Adams school yesterday afternoon. Miss Schumacher lives about four miles from the city, at Barkers Corners. She had not proceeded far on her way homeward when she came upon an aged lady who had fallen on the slippery sidewalk and was making unsuccessful efforts to rise again. The young girl ran to her assistance and discovering that an arm and been fractured in the fall, called to a man who happened to be passing, asking him where a doctor could be found.

The unfeeling passer-by replied that he didn't know anything about doctors, and hurried on. No other help came and the girl with the Little Star, applied herself with energy to the task of raising the unfortunate woman to her feet. After several unsuccessful efforts, she at last succeeded and with the aged lady leaning heavily on her, the girl proceeded slowly down Milwaukee street. Dr. Woods passed in a cutter and after inquiring into the matter directed her to Dr. Merrill's office.

Fractured Bones Set.
Dr. Merrill, assisted by Dr. E. J. Cornish of Elizabeth, New Jersey, who is visiting him, set the broken bones. The injury was found to be a comminuted fracture of the two bones near the wrist of the left arm. The lady gave her name as Mrs. Wheeler of Broadhead and after the physicians had finished their work she was taken to the home of a daughter on North Franklin street. Mrs. Wheeler is over sixty years old.

BEAUTIFUL HOME IN CALIFORNIA

FORMER JANESVILLE FAMILY'S ROYAL RESIDENCE.

SUMMERLAND OF THE WEST

The Family of George Harvey Live
Near Los Angeles—Magnificent
Home and Grounds.

Los Angeles, Cal.—Of late years the "California habit" has become so general, that a description of the delightful winter life out here, would be a stale subject to most readers. But this winter I ran across an old Janesville family transplanted out here amidst such surroundings as cannot fail to interest those of us whose memories go back for a half or quarter century, and who may recall an Englishman named George Harvey who with his family lived for many years in a pretty home on South Main street.

He has long since passed to his fathers, but his widow and children some fifteen years ago came to California, and it is about them and their surroundings that I write.

Adjoining the sleepy but lovely Spanish town of Santa Barbara, is a little valley nestled between the Santa Ynez mountains and the blue Pacific, called "Montecito" which has more than a local reputation for being the most beautiful spot on earth, with the most perfect climate. No heat in summer. No frost in winter. No storms nor floods. No snakes nor fevers. 330 sunny days in the year with flowers and humming birds alike in July and January. On a mesa commanding the green sweep of the valley, with the green mountains on one side and the sparkling ocean on the other, is a great stone mansion built and occupied by Mrs. Harvey, the widow of our former Janesville citizen. The grounds consist of forty acres in which art and nature have combined to form perfection. Groves of great natural live oaks, the fragrant acacia, graceful pepper, giant eucalyptus, the orange and lemon, and every bright colored and sweet scented tree, shrub, vine and flower known, is here represented. Roses in such profusion and variety as to defy description and rare fruits from all over the world. On the south terrace struts the stately peacock, and the pheasant and deer park adjoin. A huge swimming tank of solid masonry holds the water for irrigation and provides means for a delightful form of exercise as well as a being charm to the eye. These grounds are frequently thrown open to the public whose appreciation is shown by a steady stream of carriages winding along the beautiful roads and the exclamations of delight of their occupants.

The interior of the house is in keeping with its surroundings, curious treasures from India and Japan are mingled with trophies of the chase and sea gathered or captured by Mrs. Harvey's son who is a great traveler as well as a writer of note on subjects of political and social economy and reform.

A well stocked cellar and a stable full of horses and vehicles afford a pleasant means of entertaining their numerous guests, and the widow herself now of fourscore years, is a fit demonstration of the effect of "California climate," being hale and vigorous and having a lively recollection of her former friends and neighbors in Janesville a half century ago. Her younger daughter is the widow of a retired English banker who also settled out here. The family have vast possessions of real estate in the business center of Los Angeles besides extensive ranches and large banking interests. Surely Providence has looked after this widow and fatherless children and cast their lot in pleasant places. A. J.

WILL ATTEND THE ANNUAL MEETING

Secretary Valentine To Attend Meeting of Independent Telephone Companies.

Ricard Valentine, secretary of the Rock County Telephone company, has received a letter of invitation to attend the annual meeting of the independent telephone companies of Wisconsin to be held in Milwaukee on February 10 and 11. The meetings will be under the auspices of the Wisconsin Independent Telephone association.

The meeting will be of unusual importance and a large attendance is expected. An interesting program, in which several prominent telephone men from neighboring states will participate, has been prepared. A feature of the convention will be an exhibition of all the latest telephone apparatuses.

During the past year fifty new telephone companies were organized in the state, aggregating a capital of $500,000. This makes a total of 250 telephone companies in Wisconsin, operating 250 exchanges with 35,000 subscribers and 1,200 toll stations. The Madison system is the largest. It has nearly 2,000 subscribers.

Superintendent's Reports
Supt. C. H. Hengway in his report said that district No. 1 had some good schools and many that were a disgrace to the state of Wisconsin which was well at the foot of the list of states in matters educational. The localities chosen for some of these schools closely resembled the usual areas between the hog-pen and the barn. The windows were smeared with accumulated dirt, the plaster was rotting, the buildings unpainted, the text books ragged and out-of-date, and the teachers in many instances insufficiently trained for their important work. Such schools could be reached in a half a day's drive in any direction from Janesville. He asked if the people were asleep or if they really wished to provide better buildings for their stock that their children? He thought that the teacher ought to have better wages than the hired man. The best average salaries per month ranged from $25 to $30, and there were about 24 teachers receiving from $20 to $28. He strongly recommended the establishment of a normal school. The high school, he said, prepared for everything but teaching.

Civil War Veteran's Advice Saved Philadelphia Man's Life.

Again Despair Is Turned Into Victory by the Famous Tonic PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND

"ALL RUN DOWN"—NERVOUS AND HAD DYSPEPSIA.
S. J. Bucklin's Case Like Thousands of their Sufferers.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 26, 1903.—
"Two bottles of Paine's Celery Compound convinced me that had at last discovered a remedy that proved a permanent cure for a run-down system, nervousness, liver complaints, and dyspepsia, from which I suffered untold agony for years.
"Other so-called cures which I spent small fortunes on proved worthless and seemed only to make my complication all the more severe. For years I suffered from a general run-down system that was gradually drawing me nearer, day by day, to my last resting place.
"I was losing weight rapidly, could not eat but very little—after which I suffered intensely. In less than a year I was reduced almost to a skeleton. After trying several prominent physicians, all of whom told me that my case was puzzling, without in the least benefiting my condition, I gave up in despair, believing my disease incurable. I had taken any quantity of medicines advertised, but they were no good.
"Paine's Celery Compound was recommended to me by an old Civil War veteran whom I met in a public park. His praise of the infallible remedy was so great I decided to give it a trial.

"I purchased two bottles, and before I had finished taking it a change for the better in my condition made its appearance. I continued to take the medicine and my health of former years came back rapidly. I gained weight, became active and vigorous, and after taking five bottles of the great tonic I was entirely cured.
"Today I weight more than ever before in my life, my nerves have gained their normal condition, and my health in general is perfect. I shall never take any other. It always keeps me well."—GUS B. SENN, 8404 S. B'way, St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 1903.

KEEPS HIMSELF WELL.
